

Encore is pleased to introduce three new classes designed for students interested in continuing and expanding their musical education in theatre. These classes will be for students ages 12 and up. Call us at 508-533-7700 for more details.

The Audition Process:

This class will help prepare students for theater and musical theater auditions. We will cover everything from what to wear to appropriate songs to sing. Students will be taught how to present themselves, they will be given monologues and songs to work on and perfect. They will leave this class with their own personal audition plan and the confidence to walk into any audition completely prepared.

Reader's Theater:

This class begins with a favorite children's book chosen by each student. We will take each book and work on turning it into a script appropriate to perform for young audiences. The goal of this class is to begin the playwriting process, explore acting and directing techniques and become more comfortable with public speaking and performance.

Stage Presence and Movement:

Every theater production involves movement, whether normal blocking in a straight play or dance in a musical. This class will teach students to move comfortably on stage and teach the basics of directing terms (blocking, upstage, downstage, stage left and right). We will also teach simple steps to help students with the choreography portion of a dance audition for a musical. No dance experience necessary. We will not focus on technique but explore simple movement and rhythm.
